

Community-Campus Partnerships for Health (CCPH) presents:

EQUITABLE PARTNERSHIPS

Presentation Summary - Whole Community Connection
Friday, January 27, 2023

Participants

Whole Community
Connection Grantees

Learning Outcomes

- To recognize equitable power and resource structures
- To identify mutually beneficial relationships and community-centered approaches
- To explore methods to reduce silos and increase cross-sector collaboration

Key Takeaways:

Equitable partnerships challenge hierarchies and traditional forms of knowledge

Equitable working relationships require ongoing, transparent, and open communication at all stages of the research process

Critically analyze your partnership to determine how you interact with each other and troubleshoot communication issues

Cultural humility is lifelong learning and adaptability

Questions for Further Reflection

On Power and Resource Structures:

How have your intersectional identities informed your research and practice?

On Mutually Beneficial Relationships:

How do you build relationships that are sustained across funding?

On Silo Reduction:

How could other worldviews inform how you conduct your community-engaged research?

CCPH Team:

Charisse S. Iglesias
PhD

Da'Naya Mayes
MS

Alan Wells
PhD, MPH

Contact Email:
feedback@ccphealth.org

Sign Up For Our Newsletter:
<https://ccphealth.org/about/news/>