

Participatory Budgeting

Lunch & Learn

Event Summary
June 14, 2023

Key Takeaways

Participatory budgeting creates the space for community members to have a voice and be experts in how best funds should be spent in their communities.

You must build trust, transparency, and inclusivity in communities to properly create structures for successful participatory budgeting.

Address the roots of health inequities and social determinants of health by targeting and mitigating the unequal distribution of important community resources.

Highlights from the Presentation

Participatory Budgeting

“Participatory Budgeting is like riding a bike... You have to be out there learning, fully immersed, and doing the work.”
- Angelica Delgado Rendón, PhD

Improving Health Equity

“All of this starts with [community] trust and transparency.”
- Mysha Wynn, MA, MS

Working Across Disciplines

[Effective, participatory science is based on] “relationship-focused science!”
- Event Participant

Panelists

Mysha Wynn

MA, MS, Founder & Executive Director of Project Momentum

Paige Castro-Reyes

BA, BS, CCPH Deputy Director

Angelica Delgado Rendón

PhD, Instructor at the Medical College of Wisconsin

Facilitator: Emily Finley, MPH
CCPH Program Coordinator

Watch the English Recording

Watch the Spanish Recording

Contact Email:

feedback@ccphealth.org

Sign Up For Our Newsletter:

<https://ccphealth.org/about/news/>